

Girls call it "Messy" could it be Relational Aggression?

Saturday, August 22nd - 1:00am – 4:00pm

Vision Regeneration Center
1914 S Ewing – Dallas, TX 75216

What is Relational Aggression (RA)?

Relational aggression is described as any behavior that is intended to harm someone by damaging or manipulating relationships with others (Crick & Grotpeter, 1995). Unlike other types of bullying, relational aggression is not as overt, or noticeable as physical aggression. However, the effects can be long lasting.

This workshop is an essential tool for all girls going to back to school. Teen girls ages 12 to 17 will be empowered during this interactive, hands on workshop as they explore:

- The subtle and not so subtle forms of Relational Aggression
- Why girls are more prone to Relational Aggression
- The aggressor, the victim and the bystander
- The consequences of Relational Aggression
